The institutional comments will be included with the compliance review committee report presented to the Commission.
- 7.2.g. An out-of-state institution seeking to establish a campus in West Virginia that holds appropriate accreditation as determined by the Commission and that meets the essential conditions as provided in section 89 of this rule may be granted full authorization by the Commission.
- 7.2.h. Upon receipt and review of the compliance review committee recommendation, the Commission will consider the institution for Preliminary State Authorization effective for a period of time up to six (6) months. Within that period of time the institution shall satisfactorily complete preliminary information as required by the regional and/or other appropriate accrediting association, and shall not accept students, offer instruction, award credits toward a degree, or award a degree until granted further authorization by the Commission.

§133-52-1. General.

- 1.1. Scope. This rule establishes the policy regarding annual reauthorization of degree-granting institutions which offer degrees above the associate level.
- 1.2. Authority. West Virginia Code §18B-4-7
- 1.3. Filing Date.
- 1.4. Effective Date.

§133-52-2. Purpose.

- 2.1. The West Virginia Higher Education Policy Commission (Commission), through a process of granting authorization and annual reauthorization of baccalaureate and graduate level higher education institutions operating in West Virginia, has the responsibility of protecting consumers and ensuring students are offered quality education by postsecondary providers to West Virginia residents. An institution authorized by the Commission shall be required to operate in accordance with fair consumer practices to ensure that students can make appropriate decisions concerning their investment of time and money.
- 2.2. Fair consumer practices means honesty, fairness, and disclosure to students in the areas of recruitment, admission, contractual agreements, student financial assistance, obligations to repay student loans, placement assistance and job placement rates, advertising, refund policies, the meaning and recognition of different types of accreditation, the transferability of the institution's credits to other postsecondary institutions, the offering of quality instructional programs, and other appropriate performance measures.
- 2.3. The Commission is responsible for the authorization of any institution, association or organization external to or within the state which desires to offer programs or credit-bearing academic courses of higher learning in West Virginia. Authorization is required for all postsecondary providers including: non-profit private institutions, proprietary institutions, out-of-state public institutions, degree-granting entities that offer degrees at the baccalaureate level or above, and entities that use the term "academy,"

“college,” “institution,” “university” or similar title, hereafter referred to as “institution.”

- 2.4. The Commission is responsible for the annual reauthorization of any private, proprietary, or out-of-state postsecondary institution that has physical presence in West Virginia and offers degree programs above the associate level. The process of conferring reauthorization by the Commission includes the monitoring of standards for degrees awarded, the collection and dissemination of pertinent institutional data, the conduct of certain reviews and audits, and the imposition of certain sanctions including revocation of degree-granting authority.
- 2.5. Existing institutions of higher education authorized to operate in West Virginia prior to the effective date of this rule are subject to the reauthorization provisions of this rule and shall report annually to the Commission on all items related to reauthorization prescribed in this rule.
- 2.6. While the provisions of this rule apply directly to the annual reauthorization of any private institution in West Virginia which offers degrees above the associate level, the criteria for annual reauthorization also apply to public higher education institutions that offer degrees above the associate level in the state, and are under the purview of the Commission with the exception of Marshall University and West Virginia University.
- 2.7. While exempt from annual reauthorization, Marshall University and West Virginia University shall provide information delineated in Section 5.4 to the Commission by November 1 of each year.
- 2.8. The Commission shall make available information on institutional performance of all public institutions located in West Virginia, including Marshall University and West Virginia University, on the Commission’s website and through other appropriate venues.

ASSOCIATE DEGREE NURSING TASK FORCE REPORT

ASSOCIATE DEGREE NURSING TASK FORCE REPORT

Pamela L. Alderman, EdD, RN

August 13, 2012

Purpose

Create an Associate in Applied Science Nursing Degree Program with a common curriculum in all CTCS institutions that currently have, or are planning, a nursing program.

Background Information

Currently there are more than three million Registered Professional Nurses (RNs) licensed in the United States. This represents the largest segment of health care providers in the nation. Nurses are usually the first health care provider patients see when they enter the health care system. Over the last fifty years health care has changed dramatically in the United States. The current health care environment is complex. Individuals in this country are living longer and have a myriad of health care problems. It has been projected almost 20 percent of all Americans will be 65 years, or older, by 2030. Technology has changed the face of health care, as well as the way patient care is delivered. In order to be successful nurses, as well as nursing education, must be transformed.

The Institute of Medicine (IOM) and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF) funded a two year initiative in 2008 to assess health care and to make recommendations which address the changing health care environment. In 2010 the IOM and RWJF released its report, The Future of Nursing: Leading Change, Advancing Health. This report outlined a blueprint which will transform nursing and nursing education. A major recommendation within the report states "...nurses should achieve higher levels of education and training through an improved educational system that promotes seamless academic progression..." Further, it was concluded nursing education must be improved prior to and after nurses receive their license. The most controversial recommendation in the report states "...the proportion of nurses with baccalaureate degrees be increased to 80 percent by 2020..."

Since the early 1960s educational requirements for nurses entering the profession has been debated. The IOM/RWJF report did not recommend individuals entering the nursing profession be graduates of baccalaureate nursing programs, however within the document it is recommended current and future nursing students be introduced to a variety of educational pathways that will meet the 2020 goal of 80 percent of all nurses be educated with the bachelors degree. It is believed a more educated nursing workforce will be better prepared to meet the increased demands in the ever changing health care environment. It is recommended this goal be achieved through collaborative efforts between community colleges and four year universities. This may be accomplished through seamless curricula from the Associate Degree in Nursing (ADN) to the Bachelors Degree in Nursing (BSN) or the ADN to the Master of Science Degree in Nursing (MSN).

Establishment of the Associate Degree in Nursing (ADN) Task Force

At the April 2011 American Association of Community Colleges annual conference Chancellor James Skidmore became aware of the recommendations made by the IOM/RWJF. Upon his return from the conference Chancellor Skidmore asked Dr. Pamela L. Alderman, RN, Dean, Career and Technical Programs at Southern West Virginia Community and Technical College, to chair a meeting of all nursing program deans/directors within the CTCSWV system, as well as the deans and directors of associate degree nursing programs housed in universities in the Higher Education Policy Commission (HEPC). Also invited to participate were members of the CTCSWV Council, college/university presidents, and the executive directors of the West Virginia Board of Examiners for Registered Professional Nurses and the West Virginia Center for Nursing. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the IOM/RWJF report and recommendations.

At the conclusion of the initial meeting those in attendance voted to develop an ADN Taskforce to address the recommendations found in the report. The ADN Taskforce members agreed a common nursing curriculum needed to be developed to meet the needs of the students throughout the state. It is believed a common nursing curriculum will allow students to transfer among participating institutions. Additionally, tracking of individuals applying to nursing programs, as well as the numbers who are not admitted to a program will be readily available.

Progress Year One

Over the past year the ADN Taskforce has held regular meetings. At the first meeting of the ADN Taskforce a timeline was developed. Currently the taskforce is ahead of schedule. The following items have been completed this past year:

- Creation of common admission criteria;
- Common Application;
- Philosophy;
- Mission;
- Core Objectives;
- Common Curriculum; and
- Nursing Student Handbook.

The common curriculum was developed by the committee, with unanimous agreement. Students will be admitted during the 2013-14 academic year and will enroll in the new common nursing curriculum at all participating institutions in August 2014. The first cohort of students nursing students educated under the common nursing curriculum will graduate in May 2016.

Future Plans

Members of the ADN Taskforce will begin visiting participating institutions in order to provide information to the faculty, staff, and administrators. These meetings will take place September 14-30, 2012. The common curriculum will be presented to the West Virginia Board of Examiners for Registered Professional Nurses in October 2012. It is believed the curriculum will be approved and faculty from participating institutions will begin developing common nursing courses in October. All nursing courses will be developed by June 30, 2013.

Bluefield State University and Fairmont State University currently have RN-BSN programs. West Virginia University at Parkersburg is in the process of developing an RN-BSN program. Once the ADN common curriculum is complete work will begin on a common BSN curriculum that will be seamless and allow transfer for all graduates from participating institutions.

Conclusions

The ADN Task Force believes a common nursing curriculum will address the recommendations found in the IOM/RWJF report. Development of a common nursing curriculum will allow students enrolled at participating institutions to receive state-of-the-art instruction. Students will have the flexibility to transfer, if necessary, to another nursing program within the participating institutions. Development of new BSN programs that provides seamless articulation of students will increase the BSN nurses in West Virginia.

The community college nursing programs in West Virginia are leading the nation in the transformation of nursing education. This transformation will benefit all citizens in the state of West Virginia, as well as the nation.
